Which gel should I offer?

“Do you already have the G150 bottle?”

Yes, it’s the G150.

“To refill your bottle, you can use the G450 (450 ml) refill. The bottle is sold separately.”

The bottle must be empty and prepared according to its instructions.

No, this is my first purchase.

“You can start with the G150 (150 ml) bottle. If you want a small format, here is the G050 (50 ml) tube.”

Ask whether a small pack matters to the shopper before offering the tube.

I have a bottle, but I don’t know which one.

“Could you check the reference on your bottle? I can recommend the refill if it says G150.”

If the bottle is still unidentified, hold off on the refill. Only G150 is listed as compatible.

What supports this advice

The refill instructions establish compatibility with G150. The bottle and tube sheets give the two first-purchase options. Compare unit prices only after identifying the pack.
